Attention Deficit Disorder / Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADD/ADHD) is one of the most common mental disorders in both children and adults. Few people, however, get accurately diagnosed.

ADD / ADHD is a treatable condition, yet so many parents and spouses continue the daily struggle with it's effects. The Author, Pricilla Lea, is a mother of two very bright and beautiful children. Throughout their adolescence one of her children seemed to become easily distracted than the other. She chased it up to the belief that each child was different and that is the way of nature. As the years progressed, and her children began school, she began to notice the distractions becoming more and more prevalent. The child struggled at school which in turn became a struggle at home. The daily confrontations on getting school work done or simple tasks completed began to put a strain on the entire family. Out of desperation, she finally had her child properly tested and diagnosed. Once treatment began, happiness not only returned to the family, but the self-confidence and pride became apparent in her child.

ADD / ADHD is a REAL condition and it is treatable.
